Requirements

To graduate with a D.P.S., students must complete the required courses and minimum credit hours with a GPA of at least 3.500 and submit a written dissertation approved by a doctoral dissertation committee.

The D.P.S. program consists of 70 total credit hours, which includes a combination of coursework credits and dissertation credits.

Coursework

All students will complete 42 credit hours of trimester-based coursework (fall, spring, and summer) in the first two years, comprising 24 credit hours of core courses and 18 credit hours of specialized electives.

The specialized electives are what enables each student to focus on one of the three primary areas: Strategy and Decision-Making, Capital Markets, or Business Economics.

The first two years are broken down as follows:

1 Once students have successfully defended their dissertation proposal, their academic record will be updated with an attribute that will record their successful defense.

Students should plan to research and write their proposal in the first half of year three. Students spend the second half of year three and the entirety of year four researching and writing the full dissertation.

Students may be dismissed for failure to make academic progress if their proposal is not approved within three years, and they will automatically be placed on academic probation if proposal approval is not secured at least two semesters before the close of degree time limits.

A dissertation committee consists of all supervisors and several other faculty members from Fordham University and other partner universities. This committee determines the outcome of the defense of each doctoral dissertation. A doctoral dissertation is successfully defended only when all members of the dissertation committee sign the approval form.

* Dissertation Proposal Preparation Seminar (CBDP 9010) is an optional, credited preparatory seminar that counts as an elective, during which students receive guidance on developing their dissertation proposals.
