INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

International students are a priority at Fordham.

Representing about half of our graduate business population, international students are an important part of the fabric of our community.

We offer a unique slate of services to help international students make the transition to graduate study in the United States. Please check the below links to learn more:

- Admissions: Specific information about international student admissions
- Graduate Housing: Overview on Fordham-owned apartments for graduate students
- Office for International Services: Fordham's University-wide resource center for international students
- Student organizations at the graduate business school