International students are a priority at Fordham.

Representing 60-70 percent of our graduate business population, international students are an important part of the fabric of our community.

We offer a unique slate of services to help international students make the transition to graduate study in the United States. Please follow this menu to learn more:

- Admissions: Specific information about international student admissions
- Graduate Housing: Overview on Fordham-owned apartments for graduate students
- International Student Guide Book: Information from our graduate academic advising team
- Office for International Services: Fordham’s University-wide resource center for international students
- Global Peer Advisors: Connect with a helpful student mentor
- Student organizations at the graduate business school:
  - Chinese Business Society
  - European Student Society
  - Global Studies
  - International Students Association
  - Multicultural Affairs
  - Indian Business Student Association
  - International Community at Fordham

Updated: 06-05-2020