¹ The 12 credits of collateral study compose the program's social science component. Candidates in the Church and Faith-Based School Leadership Program may take courses for their collateral component in the Graduate School of Religion and Religious Education. Four courses (12 credits) in religious education are required; however, students with an advanced degree in this area may substitute a combination of other courses, with an adviser's approval.

Completion Requirements

Students are admitted to the Ph.D. program on a provisional basis, and their progress is monitored through the matriculation review process and periodic review by their adviser, program coordinator, chairperson, and division faculty in dissertation seminar. As part of the matriculation review process in the Division of Educational Leadership, Administration, and Policy, during the semester in which students complete 12 to 15 credits, they must demonstrate satisfactory performance on the matriculation-qualifying paper and satisfactory progress in the first 12 to 15 credits of coursework, which lead to permanent matriculation status.

To complete the Ph.D. in administration and supervision, students must meet the general Ph.D. completion requirements and these program-specific requirements:

- complete the prescribed program of study, including 57 credits beyond the master's degree, under the direction and approval of an adviser
- maintain a minimum overall graduate grade point average of 3.5 (B+ or better)
- complete a qualifying exam and academic review for permanent matriculation
- complete an end-of-program comprehensive assessment (ASGE 0901 Comprehensive Assessment)
- complete ASGE 8751 Dissertation Seminar: Educational Leadership, Administration, and Policy, PhD, the three-credit dissertation seminar for Ph.D. candidates offered by the Division of Educational Leadership, Administration, and Policy, which facilitates student/faculty interaction in the development of a dissertation proposal for the Ph.D. (No more than 3 credits of dissertation seminar may be applied toward the program total credit requirement.)
- develop and successfully defend in an oral examination an original dissertation that emphasizes the refinement of theological, humanistic, and social science concepts, methodologies, and findings as they relate to faith-based educational institutions, religious organizations, or other faith-based organizations
