

M.S.W. HYBRID

Fordham's online hybrid master of social work (M.S.W.) option on Long Island is a collaborative program with Molloy College that combines traditional face-to-face classes at Molloy's campus with online courses. In the online courses, you will meet weekly with your professor and classmates in synchronous sessions as well as pace your own learning with asynchronous course content.

The hybrid M.S.W. option enables more Long Islanders to conveniently obtain a Fordham University M.S.W. degree. We offer full-time, part-time, and Advanced Standing plans of study with both fall and spring start dates. If you have questions, contact Joanna Suppa, director of the Fordham/Molloy collaborative program, at (516) 323-3884 or suppa@fordham.edu.
