DANCE

The dance program leads to the Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree and is offered jointly by the Aliley School and Fordham University. Dance studio courses are given by the faculty of the Aliley School at their state-of-the-art studios adjacent to the Fordham campus. Academic coursework is based at the Fordham campus where it is taught by the University's arts and sciences faculty.

Students complete a broad curriculum of a minimum of 146 credits comprised of dance technique, creative, and dance academic classes, and liberal arts courses. The program's goals are to develop graduates who are highly versatile dance technicians, adept creators of dance movement, well-educated in the liberal arts, and knowledgeable about the history and interpretation of the arts.

The program offers a specialization in dance performance. First-year students take placement examinations in three major techniques—Horton, Graham-based modern, and classical ballet—so that each student can be appropriately placed by the Aliley School's faculty advisers.

The focus for freshmen and sophomores is on the development of discrete skills in the three major techniques, classes that are taken daily by each student. These skills are supported by somatic classes (body conditioning, barre à terre, and yoga) that both strengthen the body and render it more supple. Additional classes in West African dance, jazz, and other techniques further broaden students' technical range and complement their training in the three basic techniques. All dance technique classes are sequenced carefully with appropriate prerequisites. At the same time, students learn to analyze the body both experientially and theoretically in their anatomy and kinesiology course. Courses in improvisation and dance composition develop students' creativity while also teaching the craft of choreography. These creative courses complement the rigorous precision required of students in their technique classes.

In the junior year, students' dance technique skills are expected to be strong and their creative expertise well honed. At this point in their training, they are ready to learn the basics of modern and ballet partnering and repertory, both classical and contemporary. Repertory works are chosen annually to meet the needs of each class of students and to prepare them to meet the demands of the profession. They spend six to eight weeks working with each guest choreographer/artist-in-residence (AIR), or selected members of the Aliley School faculty, and perform the works in formal studio concerts scheduled throughout the year.

In their senior year, students further refine their dance technique and focus on showcasing their performance or choreographic skills through performance and the senior project. Under the guidance and supervision of the Aliley School faculty, students perform at locations in the metropolitan area during the winter. In the spring preceding the senior year, each junior meets with the B.F.A. director and B.F.A. codirector to determine the focus of that senior project. The focus will be on performance or choreography, depending upon the strengths and interests of each student, as approved by the Aliley School director, B.F.A. codirector and selected Aliley School faculty, and will culminate in B.F.A. concerts.

The progress of each student is formally evaluated at the end of each term with written evaluations and individual conferences held with the B.F.A. director, codirectors, and program staff. In addition, at the end of the freshman and sophomore years, jury exams are held and all students are reassessed for their continuation in the B.F.A. program. This assessment will consist of a review of:

1. each student's written dance evaluation
2. their academic record
3. a dance jury composed of:
   • B.F.A. director
   • B.F.A. codirector
   • department chairpersons of the Alvin Ailey School
   • selected faculty members

All B.F.A. students are expected to maintain satisfactory progress in their dance classes at the Aliley School and academic classes at Fordham University.

DANC 1601. HORTON I. (3 Credits)
This beginning level course sequence lays the groundwork for all that follows in the advanced levels. The basic warm up is taught: flat backs, primitive squat, descent and ascent, lateral stretches, release swings, leg swings and deep lunges. The shapes that will be used throughout the training in Horton technique are emphasized: the T positions, stag position, cross lunge and coccyx balance. The Horton technique was designed with studies to stretch and strengthen different areas of the body. Many of the beginning level studies which are taught focus on the achilles tendon, the abdominal muscles and movements that lengthen the spine and the hamstring muscles. Simple combinations of movements which include turns and jumps are taught to introduce musicality and dynamics to the beginning dancer's vocabulary. Performance qualities are emphasized at the very beginning of the dancer's training.

DANC 1630. BARRE A TERRE I. (2 Credits)
A supplemental class for advanced beginning students, this class leads them to explore the different muscles that enable the body to work properly while standing. Work on placement and alignment is done while lying on the floor, using both turned out and parallel positions. Instruction is given on the proper use of energy as a means to lengthen muscles and freeing the body from improper tension. The last half-hour class is a standing barre that requires students to apply their experiences from the floorwork.

DANC 1631. BARRE A TERRE II. (2 Credits)
A supplemental class for immediate and advanced students, this level develops in the student a balance of strength, flexibility and endurance. Injury prevention and the maintenance of a healthy body are focused on intently. Specific Pilates-based exercises are taught that accelerate the training process. Work in turned-out positions and the elongation of muscles through proper use of breath and energy are some of the basic components of this class. The last half-hour of class is a standing barre that requires the students to apply their experiences from the floorwork. Depending on the class size, additional work may involve specific coaching based on each dancer's needs and challenges.

DANC 1640. YOGA I. (2 Credits)
This class for beginners provides an understanding of basic breathing exercises and synchronized breath with movement. It increases the body's overall flexibility and strength through a series of seated kneeling, lying and standing exercises that relate the Yoga basics with fundamentals of dance to develop a sense of balance, control, symmetry and line. It develops the student's ability to unlock spinal energy blocks and open the central nervous system through arching, curling, lateral, twisting and circular movements of the spine. It prepares the musculature and ligamental attachments for increased flexibility and strength particularly in the hips, shoulders and chest. Most importantly, it provides and opportunity for each student to examine and maximize his or her own unique potential as a creative dancer and in life.

DANC 1641. YOGA II. (2 Credits)
This class takes the basic movements taught in Yoga I and develops them into a more fluid series that further increases the strength and flexibility already achieved in the body. It develops a sense of creativity and freedom in the body that further relates this particular system of Yoga to dance in all of its aspects. It endorses each student's responsibility to and for him/herself as artist, performer and person.

DANC 1650. GYROKINESIS I. (2 Credits)
This introductory somatic course covers the foundations of Gyrokinesis. This exercise system is based on fluid movements that offer similar physical benefits of yoga, dance and swimming, though it is not based on these or other specific exercise models. Gyrokinesis exercises are designed to work the entire body through spinal movement and joint articulation. Based on the body's natural ability to move forward and backward and side to side, the movements are designed to be rhythmic and fluid. Rather than specific postures of stances being held for long periods of time, Gyrokinesis exercises are smoothly integrated, seeming more like dance than traditional yoga. Natural breathing patterns are also incorporated into Gyrokinesis exercises.
DANC 1651. GYROKINESIS II. (2 Credits)

DANC 1701. MODERN I. (2 Credits)
This introductory course sequence in Modern technique teaches the basic vocabulary rooted in the contraction and release for beginners. This technique divides the class into three equal segments: floorwork, standing work in the center, and combinations that travel across the floor. The floorwork develops a strong expressive torso as the source of movement with simple breathing exercises that build to contraction and release exercises in various positions. The spiral position of the back leads into turns around the back in 4th position, adding the legs with the back leg extension series. Standing exercise in the center emphasize the use of the leg and the coordination of the legs, arms and torso with the contraction and release and oppositional spiral of the torso in relation to the legs. Short combinations in the center and across the floor focus on covering space and shifting weight.

DANC 1720. ANATOMY AND KINESIOLOGY I. (3 Credits)
The purpose of this course is to familiarize students with the musculoskeletal structures most directly involved in the performance of dance so that they can identify the bones, joints and muscles that lie under the skin anywhere in the body. In addition, students will learn how the skeletal muscles work to produce joint movement, how those muscles can be conditioned and what patterns of muscle action are most effective for producing the basic movements of ballet and contemporary dance techniques.

DANC 1910. IMPROVISATION. (1 Credit)
This introductory course is structured to free expression, investigate form and heighten concentration. Structured dance improvisational problems are given to lead the student to simultaneously invent and perform movement without pre-planning. Each class includes a brief warm-up followed by many different and changing forms-group movement, solos, trios and contact improvisation which begins with duets. Emphasis is placed on the development in each student of a heightened sensitivity and a conscientiousness about the creative impulse. Personal movement style and habits and the role of improvisation in both performance and the creative process are thoroughly explored.

DANC 1920. DANCE COMPOSITION I. (2 Credits)
This course capitalizes on the skills garnered in improvisation class by carefully leading students into the process of composing short studies based on a variety of abstract themes. Very specific limitations provide the framework of the initial studies and students are encouraged to acknowledge personal impulse and style while exploring within this base. Later, emphasis is placed on the growth of content and context out of these abstract explorations and studies become more ambitious. Supportive group feedback is central to the development of every student's work. Students present both a group and solo work as final projects at the end of the semester.

DANC 1921. DANCE COMPOSITION II. (2 Credits)
This course guides students into exploring more complex and personal motivations for moving. Students are expected to be independent, responsible and self-motivated in this context. There is freedom to arrange independent projects. Emphasis is placed on giving and receiving constructive well-informed criticism. Self-analysis and ability to articulate well are important skills fostered in this class. All of the work is expected to be in line with specific personal goals that the student and instructor establish together early in the term. Group projects are encouraged in the second half of the term.

DANC 3561. BALLET PARTNERING VII. (1 Credit)
The warm-up in this intermediate level course sequence includes exercises to stretch and strengthen the legs, hips and spine. The center floorwork includes longer studies like the Figure 4 and Percussive Stroke Studies which require the dancers to execute long sequences of movements, counts and dynamics. The combinations of movements across the floor are more complicated musically and technically and challenge the dancers to learn movement quickly. The combinations include material just introduced as well as vocabulary learned in the other levels. The performance aspects of dance are emphasized.

DANC 3701. MODERN V. (2 Credits)
This intermediate-level course sequence continues to build strength with an awareness of the torso as the center and initiator of all movement. Spiral, contraction and release exercises become longer and more complex, using the legs more often. Opposition and weight shifts are emphasized, building a stronger movement vocabulary, increased dynamic range and more control. The weight of the body is further explored in primary falling combinations from sitting positions and the knees. Standing work in the center develops more stamina, balance, control, flexibility and expanded sense of extensions, plie series and shifts of weight. The centering of the body is heightened with falls to the floor from standing positions off center and pitch turns. Elevation in jumps is emphasized. Longer traveling combinations often use difficult rhythms, and contractions spiral with more complicated movement phrases that call for dramatic expressiveness, use of weight and musicality.
