Some of the world’s largest brands are worth more than $100 billion. How are dominant brands created, and how are they managed to retain and increase their value? In this concentration, students learn how to help companies develop, launch, and build memorable brands, both conceptually and visually.