

MEDIEVAL STUDIES MAJOR

Requirements

The major requires ten courses.

Course	Title	Credits
HIST 1300	Understanding Historical Change: Medieval	3
One course required from each of the following sections:		15 to 20
Medieval Literature
Medieval Philosophy
Medieval Theology
Medieval Art or Music
Medieval Language
Four additional elective courses ¹		12 to 16

¹ Any course with the MVST subject code or the MVST attribute code may fulfill this requirement.

In consultation with the director or the associate director, students may be encouraged to take 5000-level courses (graduate courses open to undergraduates) in related departments.

Senior Thesis Option

The program offers a senior thesis option in Medieval Studies for senior Medieval Studies majors with a 3.0 GPA or higher in Medieval Studies who wish to complete an ambitious project under the direction of a faculty member.

Interested students should discuss this option with the undergraduate chair of Medieval Studies, as well as with a potential faculty adviser, and then submit an application to be evaluated by the undergraduate chair and potential adviser prior to the semester in which the thesis will be completed.

To write a thesis in the spring semester, students must submit the application by October 15 of the previous semester; to write a thesis in the fall semester, students must submit the application by March 1 of the previous semester.

If the application is approved, the undergraduate chair will authorize the student to register for MVST 4997 Medieval Studies Honors Thesis Tutorial, which counts as an elective toward the major (but will not replace any major requirements). Students will write the thesis over the course of one semester, at the end of which there will be a defense of the thesis with the adviser and one program reader. For more information, visit the Medieval Studies website.

Double Majors

Double majors are given greater flexibility in fulfilling the major requirements. Up to two courses may also count toward both the Medieval studies major and the second major. Students who choose medieval studies as a double major also complete 10 courses, including the following:

Availability

The major in medieval studies is available at Fordham College at Rose Hill and Fordham College at Lincoln Center. Students in Fordham's School of Professional and Continuing Studies students may major in medieval studies only if they receive the approval of their advising dean and/or department, and their schedules are sufficiently flexible to permit them to take day courses at the Rose Hill or Lincoln Center campuses.
