¹ Any course with the PJST attribute code (or PJST 4999) may qualify for this requirement. Ideally these should include at least one peace-focused course and one justice-focused course. Students should select these electives in consultation with the program adviser.

² Or similar approved capstone course on social justice movements and conflict resolution.

Introductory courses
Students are encouraged to take PJST 3110, but may substitute any of the courses listed below as well.

Courses in this group have the PJIN attribute.

Experiential Learning
The required two credits of experiential learning regarding peace and justice issues may be earned by completing two of the following service opportunities.

1. an approved course with a Service Learning attribute (SL) or Community Engaged Learning attribute (CEL)
2. an approved Global Outreach trip
3. an approved program at the Center For Community Engaged Learning or other Fordham office (e.g., Multicultural Affairs, Campus Ministry)
4. an approved practicum at the Social Innovation Collaboratory
5. an approved study abroad program that includes service learning, e.g., Casa de la Solidaridad (El Salvador), Ubuntu (South Africa), or CIEE Capetown
6. other approved volunteer work or internship

To apply for approval of credits, email the program director 1) a description of the experiential learning service work and 2) the number of work hours/days.

Availability
The peace and justice studies minor is available to students in Fordham College at Rose Hill, Fordham College at Lincoln Center, the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, and to undergraduate students at Gabelli School of Business.
