

TUTORIALS

Juniors and seniors have the opportunity to develop independent research or study opportunities. Students choose a faculty member in the area of study and together design the course including objectives, course requirements and bibliography. Approval must be received from the instructor, the department chair, and one of the deans. Applications for a tutorial can be submitted for FCRH or FCLC by the instructor; they will be reviewed by the department chair and the student's class dean.